

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF VIRGINIA
Norfolk Division

TYRONE WILLIAMS, JR.,

Petitioner,

v.

CIVIL ACTION NO. 2:16cv383
CRIMINAL ACTION NO. 2:11cr58(9)

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Respondent.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

Before the Court is Tyrone Williams' ("Petitioner") Motion to Vacate, Set Aside, or Correct Sentence, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 ("Motion"). ECF No. 505. This opinion has been amended to consider the merits of Petitioner's claim in compliance with the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit's ("Fourth Circuit") ruling in United States v. Williams, 856 F. App'x 457 (4th Cir. 2021).¹ The Government opposed the motion, Supp. Resp. Opp., ECF No. 781, and Petitioner replied. Supp. Mot., ECF No. 782. Having reviewed the Motion and filings, the Court finds that a hearing is not necessary. See 28 U.S.C. § 2255(c). For the reasons set forth below, Petitioner's § 2255 Motion is DENIED.

I. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 8, 2011, Petitioner was named in a fifty-nine count Indictment and charged with thirteen Counts. Indict., ECF No. 3. On July 13, 2011, Petitioner pled guilty to Counts One and Fifty-Five pursuant to a written plea agreement. Guilty Plea Mins., ECF No. 160; Plea Agreement, ECF No. 163. Count One charged Petitioner with participating directly or indirectly in the affairs of an enterprise, engaged in activities affecting interstate commerce through a pattern of racketeering activity in violation of Title 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c). Id. Count Fifty-Five charged Petitioner with Possession of a Firearm in Furtherance of a Crime of Violence, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 924(c)(1)(A). Id. On October 31, 2011, the Court adjudged Petitioner and found him guilty of both counts. ECF No. 328. Petitioner was sentenced to 60 months on Count One and 120 months on Count Fifty-Five, to run consecutively with Count One. J., ECF No. 330. Petitioner is scheduled to be released from imprisonment on February 20, 2024.²

¹ On appeal, the Fourth Circuit vacated this Court's October 27, 2016, Memorandum Opinion and Order, which denied Petitioner's Motion to Vacate, Set Aside, or Correct a Sentence. See Williams, 856 Fed. App'x at 458 (vacating the district court's order and remanding for consideration of the § 2255 motion in light of the Fourth Circuit's decision in In re Thomas, 988 F.3d 783 (4th Cir. 2021)).

According to Petitioner's Presentence Investigation Report ("PSR"), which incorporated the Statement of Facts that Petitioner agreed to as part of his plea agreement, Petitioner was a member of the Bounty Hunter Bloods/Nine Tech Gangsters (BHB/NTG) street gang in the Eastern District of Virginia. Presentence Invest. Report ¶ 19(g), ECF No. 318 ("PSR"); see also Statement of Facts, ECF No. 162. BHB/NTG is a criminal enterprise engaged in racketeering activity, including murder, robbery, maiming, assault with a dangerous weapon, and narcotics distribution. PSR at ¶ 15. Between 2005 and 2008, Petitioner was involved in several criminal acts in support of the BHB/NTG criminal enterprise, including conspiring to commit robbery, illegally distributing narcotics, illegally possessing and shooting at victims with a firearm, and attempting to rob drug dealers and rival gang members. Id. ¶¶ 21-26, 34.

On June 27, 2016, Petitioner filed the instant Motion to vacate his 18 U.S.C. § 924(c) conviction in light of the Supreme Court's decision in Johnson v. United States, 576 U.S. 591 (2015). ECF No. 505. On July 8, 2016, the Fourth Circuit granted Petitioner's Motion to file a second § 2255 Motion. ECF No. 514. On July 8, 2016, Petitioner re-filed his § 2255 Motion with this Court. ECF No. 515. The United States moved to dismiss Petitioner's Motion on July 21, 2016. ECF No. 526. On July 26, 2016, Petitioner filed a response to the United States' motion to dismiss. ECF No. 531. On July 27, 2016, the Government replied. ECF No. 534. On October 27, 2016, the Court issued a Memorandum Opinion and Order denying Petitioner's § 2255 Motion to Vacate as untimely and granting the Government's motion to dismiss. Mem. Op. & Order Deny'g Mot. Vacate, ECF No. 547. On December 23, 2016, Petitioner appealed. Notice Appeal, ECF No. 560. On August 17, 2021, the Fourth Circuit vacated this Court's Order denying Petitioner's § 2255 motion and remanded for this Court to consider the merits of Petitioner's claims in light of United States v. Davis, 139 S. Ct. 2319 (2019) and In re Thomas, 988 F.3d 783 (4th Cir. 2021), which were decided after this Court's original decision. Williams, 856 Fed. App'x at 457.

On remand, Petitioner filed an Unopposed Motion to Suspend Briefing and Hold the Case in Abeyance in light of the Fourth Circuit's pending decision in United States v. Manley, 52 F.4th 143 (4th Cir. 2022). ECF No. 738. On December 1, 2021, the Court granted the motion and stayed the case. ECF No. 747. On October 26, 2022, the Fourth Circuit affirmed the district court's judgment in Manley. See 52 F.4th at 153. On November 28, 2022, the Court lifted the stay and ordered the parties to file supplemental briefings on Petitioner's § 2255 Motion. ECF No. 774. On January 13, 2023, the Government filed its supplemental response in opposition to Petitioner's Motion. ECF No. 781. On January 27, 2023, Petitioner replied in support of his original Motion, claiming that his conviction on Count Fifty-Five is void after United States v. Davis, 139 S. Ct. 2319 (2019). Supp. Mot. at 1. Therefore, the matter is now ripe for judicial determination.

I. LEGAL STANDARD

A. Section 2255

Section 2255 allows a federal prisoner "claiming the right to be released upon the ground that the sentence was imposed in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States . . . [to] move the court which imposed the sentence to vacate, set aside, or correct the sentence." 28 U.S.C. § 2255 (2008). In a § 2255 motion, the petitioner bears the burden of proving his or her claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See Miller v. United States, 261 F.2d 546, 547 (4th Cir. 1958). Additionally, pro se filers are entitled to a more liberal construction of their pleadings. Erickson v.

Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 94 (2007).

When deciding a § 2255 motion, the Court must promptly grant a hearing “[u]nless the motion and the files and records of the case conclusively show that the prisoner is entitled to no relief.” 28 U.S.C. § 2255(b). Motions under § 2255 generally “will not be allowed to do service for an appeal.” Sunal v. Large, 332 U.S. 174, 178–79 (1947). For this reason, issues already fully litigated on direct appeal may not be raised again under the guise of a collateral attack. United States v. Dyess, 730 F.3d 354, 360 (4th Cir. 2013). Issues that should have been raised on direct appeal are deemed waived, procedurally defaulted, and cannot be raised on a § 2255 motion. United States v. Mikalajunas, 186 F.3d 490, 492 (4th Cir. 1999).

However, an individual may raise a procedurally defaulted claim if he or she can show (1) “cause and actual prejudice resulting from the errors of which he complains” or (2) that “a miscarriage of justice would result from the refusal of the court to entertain the collateral attack. . . [meaning] the movant must show actual innocence by clear and convincing evidence.” Id. at 492–93. To demonstrate cause and prejudice, a petitioner must show the errors “worked to [his or her] actual and substantial disadvantage, infecting [his or her] entire trial with error of constitutional dimensions.” United States v. Frady, 456 U.S. 152, 170 (1982). Ineffective assistance of counsel claims should generally be raised in a collateral motion instead of on direct appeal and constitute sufficient cause to review a procedurally defaulted claim. See United States v. Benton, 523 F.3d 424, 435 (4th Cir. 2008); Mikalajunas, 186 F.3d at 493.

B. Crimes of Violence under § 18 U.S.C. § 924(c)

At issue here is Petitioner’s conviction under § 924(c)(1)(A) and 2 for Possession of a Firearm in Furtherance of a Violent Crime. Petitioner’s conviction under § 924(c)(1)(A) and 2 is only valid if it is predicated on a “crime of violence.” The controlling federal statute defines “crime of violence” in two alternative ways: (1) through the § 924(c)(3)(A) “force clause,” requiring that the predicate offense categorically includes the “use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person or property of another” as an element of the offense; or (2) through the § 924(c)(3)(B) “residual clause,” requiring that the predicate offense “by its nature, involves a substantial risk that physical force” may be used during the offense. 18 U.S.C. § 924(c)(3). In United States v. Davis, 139 S. Ct. 2319 (2019), the Supreme Court held § 924(c)’s residual clause unconstitutionally vague. Therefore, Petitioner’s § 2255 motion can only succeed if he demonstrates that the predicate crimes underlying his § 924(c) conviction are not “crimes of violence” under the force clause.

C. Methods of Statutory Interpretation

To determine whether an offense qualifies as a crime of violence under Section 924(c)(3)(A), courts employ either the categorical approach or the modified categorical approach. See United States v. Mathis, 932 F.3d 242, 263-64 (4th Cir. 2019). Under the categorical approach, courts will “consider only the crime as defined, not the particular facts in the case.” United States v. Simms, 914 F.3d 229, 233 (4th Cir.), cert. denied, — U.S. —, 140 S. Ct. 304, 205 L.Ed.2d 196 (2019). “[I]n cases involving statutes that set out elements in the alternative and thus create multiple versions of the crime, [courts] consider the statute divisible and apply the modified categorical approach.” United States v. Diaz, 865 F.3d 168, 2017 WL 3159918, at *4 (4th Cir. 2017) (internal quotation marks omitted). The modified approach serves “as a tool to identify the elements of the crime of conviction when a statute’s disjunctive phrasing renders one (or more) of them opaque.” Mathis v. United States, 579 U.S. 500, 513 (2016). In carrying out the modified categorical approach, courts may examine a limited class of documents, including indictments and jury instructions, to determine which part of the statute the defendant violated. Descamps v. United States, 570 U.S. 254, 257 (2013).

D. VICAR – 18 U.S.C. § 1959

18 U.S.C. § 1959 imposes criminal penalties for committing “violent crimes in aid of racketeering activity” or VICAR. In general, “[t]he VICAR statute defines prohibited conduct by reference to enumerated federal offenses, but also requires that the conduct be ‘in violation of the laws of any State or the United States.’” United States v. Keene, 955 F.3d 391, 393 (4th Cir. 2020) (quoting 18 U.S.C. § 1959(a)). In other words, a VICAR conviction is premised upon the defendant's other federal and state criminal conduct. Here, the underlying statutory offenses for Petitioner's § 924(c) conviction is 18 U.S.C. § 1959(a)(3) and 2, which specifically identifies “Assault with a Dangerous Weapon in Aid of Racketeering Activity,” and 18 U.S.C. § 1959(a)(5) and 2, which specifically identifies “Attempted Murder in Aid of Racketeering Activity” as the generic federal offenses for conviction. See Indict. at 50 - 52.

II. DISCUSSION

Petitioner argues that his § 924(c) conviction on Count 55 should be vacated because Petitioner's VICAR offenses categorically fail as “crimes of violence.” See Supp. Mot. The Government argues that Petitioner's § 924(c) conviction must be upheld on collateral review because both predicates remain valid after Davis. Supp. Resp. Opp. For the reasons stated below, Petitioner's argument is without merit.

A. Petitioner's § 2255 Motion is Timely

On June 26, 2015, the Supreme Court decided Johnson v. United States. 576 U.S. 591 (2015). Petitioner's original motion raised Johnson-related challenges to his § 924(c) conviction and was filed within the one-year limitations period that ran from the date the Supreme Court announced its substantive rule in Johnson. ECF Nos. 505, 515. The Court originally denied Petitioner's Motion, holding that Petitioner's claim did not meet the timeliness requirements under § 2255 because the constitutionality of § 924(c)(3)(b) was not affected by the Johnson decision. See Mem. Op. & Order Deny'g Mot. Vacate. However, on appeal the Government withdrew its timeliness defense and the Fourth Circuit held that Petitioner's Motion is properly before this Court because Johnson had a retroactive effect in cases on collateral review. Williams, 856 F. App'x at 457 (citing In re Thomas, 988 F.3d 783, 786 (4th Cir. 2021)). Therefore, the parties agree that the factual circumstances of Petitioner's § 924(c) conviction permit him to seek relief but disagree as to whether such relief is warranted. Accordingly, the Court finds Petitioner's Motion timely under § 2255(f)(3) and considers the merits of Petitioner's claims below.

B. Constitutionality of Petitioner's Conviction on Count Fifty-Five After Davis

In his original motion, Petitioner argues that he is entitled to relief under 28 U.S.C. § 2255(a) because his § 924(c) conviction (1) violates due process, (2) violates the laws of the United States and results in a fundamental miscarriage of justice, and (3) was entered in excess of this Court's jurisdiction. ECF No. 515 at 2. In his supplemental memorandum, Petitioner argues that the Court must vacate his sentence on Count 55 because his underlying VICAR offenses (Assault with a Dangerous Weapon and Attempted Murder in Aid of Racketeering Activity) in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 1959(a)(3), 1959(a)(5), and 2 do not qualify as crimes of violence after Davis. Supp. Mot. at 1. See 18 U.S.C. § 924(c)(3)(A). In accordance with the Fourth Circuit's decision vacating the Court's original Order, the Court considers the merits of Petitioner's claims below. See Williams, 856 F. App'x at 458.

i. The Structure of Petitioner's VICAR Offenses

Petitioner pled guilty to Count 55 for violating § 924(c) by possessing a firearm in furtherance of a crime of violence. ECF No. 163. Only crimes satisfying § 924(c)'s force clause are valid crimes of violence capable of supporting a § 924(c) conviction. United States v. Said, 26 F.4th 653, 658 (4th Cir. 2022). Petitioner's § 924(c) conviction on Count 55 has two predicate crimes of violence: VICAR Assault with a Dangerous Weapon as alleged in Count 54, in violation of 18

U.S.C. § 1959(a)(3) and 2, and VICAR Attempted Murder as alleged in Count 53, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1959(a)(5) and 2. Indict. at 50-52.³

Sections 1959(a)(3) and 1959(a)(5) both require a valid predicate for conviction. Count 54 is predicated on two Virginia state-law offenses: Va. Code Ann. §§ 18.2-53.1 (use or display of a firearm in the commission of a felony) and 18.2-282 (brandishing firearm). Id. at 51. Count 53 is also predicated on two Virginia state-law offenses: Va. Code Ann. §§ 18.2-32 and 18.2-26 (attempted second-degree murder). Id. at 50-51. Petitioner's § 2255 Motion can only succeed if he demonstrates that both predicate crimes are invalid. See United States v. Crawley, 2 F.4th 257 (4th Cir. 2021). However, the parties disagree on whether Petitioner's VICAR offenses serve as valid predicates for Petitioner's 924(c) conviction. Accordingly, the Court must determine whether either VICAR offense satisfies § 924(c)(3)(A). If not, Petitioner's conviction on Count 55 must be vacated.

ii. Petitioner's VICAR Assault Serves as a Valid Predicate for Petitioner's 924(c) conviction on Count 55

The Court first considers whether Petitioner's VICAR Assault satisfies § 924(c)'s force clause. Both the strict categorical approach and its modified version, as applied to § 924(c)(3)(A), aid courts in assessing whether the statutory elements of the predicate crime require the force clause elements of "use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force." Petitioner argues that VICAR assault fails to qualify as a "crime of violence" under the strict categorical approach. However, the Court finds that the modified categorical approach, rather than the strict categorical approach, applies to Petitioner's VICAR Assault offense.

³ Petitioner was not convicted of Counts 53 and 54 but both counts are incorporated by reference into the allegations set forth in Count 55. Id.; See J. According to the Indictment and Statement of Facts that Petitioner admitted to as a part of his guilty plea, the conduct underlying Petitioner's VICAR offenses is based on Petitioner's involvement in a violent street gang: BHB/NTG. See Indict. As a member of the gang, Petitioner was involved in a number of violent criminal offenses and committed the alleged VICAR Assault and Attempted Murder by shooting at several rival gang members with a firearm. See id.; ECF No. 162.

a. The Modified Categorical Approach is the Correct Method to Examine Petitioner's VICAR Assault Offense

Given the Fourth Circuit's rulings in Mathis, 932 F.3d at 264-67, the Petitioner urges the Court to employ the categorical approach to assess Petitioner's VICAR offenses. Supp. Mot. at 3-9. Under this approach, Petitioner argues that the Court's "crime of violence" analysis must look through the elements of the VICAR offense to examine whether the elements of the charged state-law predicates are a categorical match for the federal crime. See id. at 10-12 (arguing that Va. Code Ann. § 18.2-282 does not satisfy the force clause because it is a misdemeanor offense and a person can brandish a firearm "in a manner as to reasonably induce fear in the mind of another" with a mens rea of recklessness); id. at 12-15 (arguing that Va. Code Ann. § 18.2-53.1 does not qualify as a crime of violence because an individual could be convicted of the offense by using or threatening the use of force against himself or property, rather than "against another"). Relying on Keene, the Government argues that the Court should apply the modified categorical approach to conduct a narrower "crime of violence" analysis that only considers whether Petitioner's generic, federal assault with a dangerous weapon conviction under § 1953(a) satisfies § 924's force clause. See ECF No. Supp. Resp. Opp. at 4-8.

Ultimately, the categorical approach does not apply to Petitioner's VICAR Assault conviction for § 924(c) purposes. Courts within the Fourth Circuit have routinely applied the modified categorical approach when evaluating similar VICAR offenses in the context of a § 2255 Motion. See United States v. Bryant, 949 F.3d 168, 173 (4th Cir. 2020); Cousins v. United States, 198 F. Supp. 3d 621, 626 (E.D. Va. 2016). The VICAR statute in Count 54 describes multiple predicate offenses, any one of which could serve as the basis for a VICAR conviction. While "assault with a dangerous weapon" under § 1959(a)(3) is Petitioner's offense of conviction, the statute also contemplates murder (§ 1959(a)(1)), maiming (§ 1959(a)(2)), and other criminal conduct (see § 1959(a)(4)-(a)(6)), each with varied elements. Accordingly, the Court finds that Petitioner's VICAR offense must be analyzed using the modified categorical approach, as it lists elements in the alternative, defining different § 1959 offenses based on the predicate violent crime. Under the modified categorical approach, the Court is not limited in considering whether the charged state-law predicate offenses are categorically crimes of violence independent of VICAR and may review other documents in this case when conducting its “crime of violence” analysis. See In re Thomas, 988 F.3d at 791 (explaining that courts are “not limited to considering whether the charged state-law predicate offenses are categorically crimes of violence independent of VICAR”).

b. Petitioner’s VICAR Assault Satisfies the Force Clause

Next, the Court addresses whether Petitioner’s VICAR Assault conviction qualifies as a crime of violence under § 924(c)’s force clause. To make this determination, the Court reviews Count 54 of the Indictment, which charges Petitioner with VICAR Assault with a Dangerous Weapon, in violation of §§ 1959(a)(3) and 2, and the underlying offense conduct. See Indict. at 50-52. The elements of VICAR Assault are as follows: (1) the organization is a RICO enterprise; (2) the enterprise was engaged in racketeering activity as defined in RICO; (3) the defendant had a position in that enterprise; (4) the defendant committed the alleged crime of violence in violation of federal or state law; and (5) the defendant’s general purpose in doing so was to maintain or increase position in the enterprise. See United States v. Zelaya, 908 F.3d 920, 926-27 (4th Cir. 2018) (emphasis added). At issue here is the fourth element, which is specific to the VICAR predicate and the key element in evaluating whether the VICAR offense has as its own element “the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force.”

Because 18 U.S.C. § 1959 does not define “assault,” the Court looks to the elements of the predicate offense as it is generically defined. Davis v. United States, 430 F. Supp. 3d 141, 145 (E.D. Va. 2019); United States v. Passaro, 577 F.3d 207, 217-18 (4th Cir. 2009) (explaining that “courts have uniformly recognized that various federal statutes criminalizing assault incorporate the long-established common law definition of that term.”). “In its traditional common law usage, the term assault encompasses two types of actions. It can refer either to an unsuccessful attempted battery or to a threatening act which places another person in reasonable apprehension of an imminent physical harm.” United States v. Barbeito, 2010 WL 2243878, at *24 (S.D.W.Va. June 3, 2010). Based on this generic definition of assault, the Court finds that Petitioner’s VICAR Assault offense required the use or threatened use of physical force. The combination of (1) common law assault with (2) the use of a dangerous weapon necessarily requires “a physical act, utilizing a dangerous weapon, that signifies to the victim that the aggressor has the present ability to cause the threatened harm with the weapon, and that the weapon may be put to harmful use immediately.... [which demonstrates that] force is clearly used or threatened against the victim.” Cousins, 198 F. Supp. at 626 (citing Barbeito, 2010 WL 2243878, at *24). In this case, Petitioner admitted to committing the alleged VICAR Assault by shooting at several rival gang members with a firearm in satisfaction of the fourth element. See Indict.; 205.

Petitioner argues that the common law definition of assault as applied to VICAR assault with a dangerous weapon is not a crime of violence because: (1) it can be completed recklessly; (2) it impermissibly includes mere possession of a dangerous weapon rather than use; and (3) it can be accomplished by acts not requiring violent force or physical force. Supp. Mot. at 15-21. However, contrary to Petitioner’s contentions, mere possession is not included in the common law definition. Moreover, “[f]or a battery-type assault, the weapon would have to make contact with the victim.” Cousins, 198 F. Supp. 3d at 626. While simple assault may be committed with recklessness or forcible touching, inherent in placing another in reasonable apprehension of immediate harm with a dangerous weapon is that the offender intended to commit the assault with violent force. See Diaz, 2017 WL 3159918, at *9 (“[A]ssault need only be a forcible touching, and there is no evidence that it needs to rise to the level of violent force.”) (internal quotation marks omitted). For these reasons, the Court finds that Petitioner’s VICAR Assault with a Dangerous Weapon under § 1959(a)(3) on Count

54 qualifies as a crime of violence and serves as a valid predicate crime for Petitioner's 924(c) conviction even after Davis.

iii. Petitioner's 924(c) conviction remains valid after Davis

Petitioner raises the argument that his 924(c) conviction was not predicated on VICAR attempted murder, as charged in Count 53.⁴ Supp. Mot. at 21-23. Petitioner also contends that his VICAR Attempted Murder offense does not qualify as a valid crime of violence.⁵ Id. at 23-29. However, the Court need not address Petitioner's claims regarding Count 53 because the Court is satisfied that Petitioner's conviction on Count 55 is predicated on a valid crime of violence in Count 54 (VICAR Assault). Ultimately, Petitioner's § 2255 Motion can only succeed on collateral review if both predicate crimes are invalid. See United States v. Crawley, 2 F.4th 257 (4th Cir. 2021) (holding that a § 924(c) conviction based on one valid and one invalid predicate offense remains sound after Johnson and its progeny); see, e.g., United States v. Said, 26 F.4th 653 (4th Cir. 2022) (upholding the defendant's conviction on collateral review because either predicate crime sufficed; United States v. Smith, 2022 WL 16919270, *2 (4th Cir. 2022) ("In other words, we will uphold a § 924(c) conviction if it is 'expressly predicated' on at least one offense that categorically qualifies as a crime of violence."). Under Crawley, Petitioner's valid VICAR Assault offense on Count 54 is enough to sustain Petitioner's 924(c) conviction. Accordingly, the Court finds that Petitioner's § 2255 claims regarding the constitutionality of his conviction on Count 55 are without merit.

C. CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, Petitioner's § 2255 Motion, ECF No. 505, is DENIED.

This Court may issue a certificate of appealability only if the applicant has made a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right. 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c); FED. R. APP. P. 22(b)(1). This means that Petitioner must demonstrate that “reasonable jurists could debate whether . . . the petition should have been resolved in a different manner or that the issues presented were ‘adequate to deserve encouragement to proceed further.’” Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 484 (2000) (quoting Barefoot v. Estelle, 463 U.S. 880, 893 n.4 (1983)); see United States v. Swaby, 855 F.3d 233, 239 (4th Cir. 2017). Petitioner’s claims are based upon incorrect interpretations of statutory provisions and judicial precedent. As such, Petitioner fails to demonstrate a substantial showing of a denial of a constitutional right, and a Certificate of Appealability is DENIED.

In addition, the Court ADVISES Petitioner that he may appeal from this final Order by forwarding a written notice of appeal to the Clerk of the United States District Court, United States Courthouse, 600 Granby Street, Norfolk, Virginia 23510. The Clerk must receive this written notice within sixty (60) days from this Order’s date. The Court DIRECTS the Clerk to provide a copy of this Order to all Parties.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
